DEDICATION

In deep appreciation for sincere leadership, the class of 1935 dedicate this Tekoa to our President

DR. CHARLES RUSSELL

Charles Russell

PRESIDENT OF THE STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE
AT WESTFIELD

FOREWORD

The present year marks the graduation from this college of the first groups that have taken special work for teaching in Junior High Schools, as well as the graduation of the first group that originally elected the four year course for teaching in elementary schools. The year is also significant because it has seen the abandonment of all courses of less than four years in length in all the Teachers Colleges of the Commonwealth.

To you pioneer students of all classes, whose constant cooperation and unfailing support has made the transition so fruitful, I express my grateful appreciation. It is my hope that the future will hold for you the highest measure of happiness and success.

DUSK

The shadowy softness of sombre trees—
The murmuring music of a zephyr breeze—
The sudden sinking of a ball of flame
Into the unknown. How shall I name
The strange momentous pause that falls
When Day departs like a god of flame
When Night steals forth like a silent lady
And all the world is breathless—waiting?

CLASS WILL

Mr. President, faculty, students, and friends: We, the class of '35, who are about to die, salute you. Contrary to the custom in such cases, and merely at the behest of my noble client, '35, have I called you together before her death to hear her will and receive her gifts. Only the unusual circumstances of my client could have persuaded me to take this drastic action and to reveal these dreaded facts: doctors whose prognostications have never been known to fail have announced that on Thursday, on the thirteenth day of June, '35 must die. I regret the sorrow I know this will cause you, and if I had realized before how badly you would feel, never should I have divulged this secret. It is my client's wish to state that owing to a heaviness in the vital organs because of thoughts of parting—and to feasting, and to a lightness in the head, the result of the gradual swelling during the last four years, she may have unwillingly made an error in her inventory. But she gives you all she thinks she has and pays that you do not believe that her generosity is due to her rapidly approaching death.

We, the graduating class of 1935, of the State Teachers College, in the city of Westfield, in the county of Hampden, in the state of Massachusetts, being about to leave this sphere, in full possession of a sound understanding, memory and mind, and of lawful age, do make and publish this our last will and testament, hereby revoking and making void all former wills by us at any time heretofore made.

Item I: We give and bequeath to Dr. Russell, our esteemed President, restful nights and pleasant dreams. We are by no means unaware of the sorrow caused him by our predicted and inevitable death; fearing, however, that even so magnanimous a gift will not assuage our President's suffering, we leave in addition a jig saw puzzle of the Senior brain. May he in his rare spare moments be successful in putting together the glowing but enigmatic and often entirely unintelligible pieces.

Item II: We direct that our funeral services shall be conducted by our sincere friends and well wishers, the faculty, only pleading that our funeral be carried on with all the pomp, dignity, and nobility that our position in the college after four memorable years has so justly merited.

Item III: We leave to Miss Lammers, for four years our competent and loved advisor, the opportunity of guiding another class that is no less appreciation of her splendid co-operation than have been the present senior class.

Item IV: To Miss Pratt we leave that corner in the library made famously infamous by the boisterousness of the Seniors. May the silence that will enshroud that place at our departure arouse only pleasant memories as the years glide by.

Item IV: To Dr. Crutsinger we leave the remembrance of a class sufficiently ambitious and enterprising to promulgate his progressive ideas in a country where the visits of undertakers to bigoted and unprogressive teachers and superintendents are far too infrequent.

Item V: To Mrs. Brooks, a puppet cast, always to be available at scheduled rehearsals merely by the pulling of a string. This should be a welcome relief after the ubiquitous casts she has had to cope with previously.

Item VI: To Miss Braucher, who is starting, in her usual vivacious manner, a garden for the dormitory, a pair of rose-colored glasses of high magnifying power, that the results may more nearly approach those mouth-watering illustrations in seed catalogues.

Item VII: To Miss Fickett, we leave Oscar, the mechanical man, who never fails to have an edifying response to roll call, always volunteers for reports, and loves to take part in dramatizations. Oscar's low risibility quotient makes him especially suitable for the role of Comenius, although he is also superb as Aristotle, Plato, Pythagoras, and Socrates.

Item VIII: To Dr. Haupt, who for three years has so faithfully answered our sometimes intelligent questions, we leave a seat with a strong spring, operating somewhat on the principle of a diving board. May such a seat conserve the energy Dr. Haupt expends in his frequent oscillations from chair to blackboard as he tries to correct our assumed lack of orthographic powers.

Item IX: To Mr. Hawley we bequeath a class of automatons who may, more successfully than our illustrious class, comprehend the intricacies of that musical lore imparted so glibly in Mr. Hawley's own inimitable terminology, which presupposes a background of at least twenty years of music study.

Item X: To Miss Lusk we leave one quarter dozen of pink Oriental slippers with extremely pointed upcurling toes, which she so likes to wear while preparing stage scenery. We suggest that they be worn only during those calm occasions when the Christmas play is being rehearsed.

Item XI: To Mr. Patterson, first we extend our sympathy for the unworthy, biased and prohibitory gifts that have previously been bequeathed to him. It is our privilege to be the first class to have the pleasure of willing to Mr. Patterson two revolutionary gifts: first, a hitherto unpublished book of the twentieth century, containing norms and examination questions most suitable for an international relations course, and in the second place a very strident alarm clock to occasionally arouse the class from its torpid slumber.

Item XII: To Miss Robert we leave a class who may remain in these halls of learning for at least seven years, so that they may at the end of that time be in such complete possession of every possible detail included in the most unabridged dictionary of rules, that they may enjoy at least one game uninterrupted by the shrill of the referee's whistle, announcing the violation of one of several of said rules.

Item XIII: To Miss Snow we bequeath a complete and varied set of complimentary phrases with which to encourage those students whose particular ability is not art, and for whom Miss Snow has such compassion that she feels it her bounden duty to comment favorably, though that particular piece of art, even in the knowledge of its producer, actually cries out to heaven for vengeance.

Item XIV: To Miss Tobey, an uncompleted mimeographed questionnaire to be answered by those unfortunates who enter just at the second after the beginning of the class. The list, for the guidance of those who will complete it, is at present as follows:

Why are you late?
Where were you?
Have you reported to the office?
What's your excuse?
Why didn't you leave sooner?
Wasn't there a clock there?
Can't you tell time?
Didn't you know you had a class?
Don't you usually come to class?
Were you sick?
What was the matter?
Answer my question.
Did you see a doctor?

Item XV: To Miss St. Clair who during previous years has been bequeathed an oversupply of bicycles, carts, scooters, Austins and roller skates, we leave a request that she share these conveyances with those coming Seniors whose habitual presence in the office will one day make necessary an all too rapid eviction.

Item XVI: To Miss Boylan, $473.77 in nickels and cents to be used for E. R. A. change, and also a large spiral rack for those multitudinous rubber stamps.

Item XVII: To Mrs. Pearson, a two-room doll-house, wherein the kitchen, equipped with paper plates and cups, shall uphold its honor with an unbreakable hot water boiler, while the living room, in contrast to our social room, shall be equipped with immovable, dust-proof furniture and dust-resistant rugs.

Item XVIII: To our janitors, Ben and Rich, we leave not only our heartfelt appreciation for all favors conferred upon us during our four years here, but also a complete set of different sized stages, curtains, lights, etc., so that at a moment's notice they may push a button, and, presto—there will be ready for use a completely equipped setting for various college productions. Such a bequest, we feel sure, will make it easier to cope with the demands of such exacting classes as ours has been.

We do hereby constitute and appoint Dr. Russell sole executor of this, our will, written on one sheet of parchment, set our hand and seal upon it, this twelfth day of June, anno, Domini, one thousand, nine hundred and thirty-five.

Lillian St. Clair

REMEMBRANCE

My mind remembers
Such little things:
The sudden cry
Of a bird on wing,
The quiet caress
Of the dewy grass,
Lilac plumes waving
As I pass.

My mind remembers
Such little things:
The sly whisper
Of cornstalks gossiping,
The silent salute
Of the silver birches,
Green ivy
On old churches.

DESTINY

Living day by day,
With many tasks to do—
Are we here just to work,
To die when we are through?

Is there nothing more
Before the end will come?
Or, shall we find a chalice here,
While the race is won.

DREAMS

Frail as silky cobwebs,
Fragile as old lace.
Scented with the musky fragrance
Of lavender and verbena.
Misty, fleeting, lovely fancies
That fade away softly—
Like hushed music.
Leaving behind a subtle sense
Of lingering beauty.

M. Ruth Reavey '35

MOON MANNERS

The moon—
An eighteenth century lady
Sweeping through her court—
The starry heavens,
With a heart so cold
And hands so greedy
That she flings aside a cluster
Of stars
In an endless pursuit
Of her lover—Day.

Vice-President	ELIZABETH HENDERSON
Secretary	IRMA POMEROY
Treasurer	MARJORIE SCHERWITSKY
Faculty Adviser	MISS LOUISE SNOW

All students of the college, with the exception of the dormitory girls, are members of the Commuters' Club. Their organization furnishes a well-equipped dining room and kitchen for the exclusive use of its members. A dance usually climaxes the season's events.

ART CLUB

President	Marie Drummond
Vice-President	Harriet Richard
Secretary-Treasurer	Ruth Wilson
Faculty Adviser	Miss Louise Snow

The Art Club is comprised of those members of each class who are interested and talented in art work. Their weekly meetings evidence a marked advancement which takes the form each year of some major activity in assembly programs.

ACTIVITIES 1935

Annual Art Club Sale

Puppet Show "The Toymaker of Nuremburg"

GOLDEN KEY CLUB

(Literature Club)

President	MILDRED CARLSON
Vice-President	GRACE LESTER
Secretary-Treasurer	STASIA KRAS
Faculty Adviser	MISS M. GRACE FICKETT

The Golden Key Club is an organization open to the whole college. Its aim is to increase a knowledge of modern literature—prose and poetry. Programs are arranged by the president, and meetings are held on the first and third Mondays of the month.

ACTIVITIES 1935

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

President	ELIZABETH L. CREAN
Vice-President	ELEANOR CYRAN
Secretary	GERTRUDE MCKISSICK
Treasurer	RITA MITCHELL
Faculty Adviser	MISS THERESA J. LAMMERS

Every Westfield College student automatically becomes a member of the Women's Athletic Association upon payment of the Student Council fee. This organization supports its motto, "a team for every girl and every girl on a team," by offering a long and varied list of sports, including field hockey, basketball, hiking, archery, and tennis. The annual May Day festival is another important activity sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association.

ACTIVITIES 1935

Informal Dance

May Day Pageant

SCIENCE CLUB

President	GLADYS E. FARR
Secretary	RACHEL CLARK
Program Chairman	MARY E. HOLLAND
Faculty Adviser	DR. GEORGE W. HAUPT

The Science Club was organized during the past winter by the sophomores under the supervision of Dr. Haupt of the science department. The sophomore class responded so enthusiastically to the proposed organization that membership was limited to that class. Plans have been made, however, to admit students of all classes next fall. The regular meetings comprised lectures by leading men of science in Westfield, in addition to scientific discussions among club members.

ACTIVITIES 1935

Delegation to the Scientific Conference of the Connecticut Valley Colleges at Amherst.

Tour of the Museum of Natural History at Springfield.

Excursion to the Mount Holyoke College Observatory.

Open Meetings.

JOURNALISM CLUB

Editor-in-Chief	EVELYN JEGELWICZ
Assistant Editor	SOPHIE PALLOCK
Business Manager	MARJORIE SCHERWITZKY
Feature Editor	ALBINA SHINOFSKY

This club was organized in 1934 for the purpose of editing the "News Bulletin," a weekly newspaper, the first of its sort in the institution. This year's revision and reorganization of the publication resulted in "The Commentator," a bi-weekly issue. Membership is open to all who are interested in journalism. The club elects the Editor-in-Chief, who appoints the other members of the staff; but as yet no adviser has been chosen.

SEWING CLUB

President ANNA JOHNSON

Membership in the Sewing Club is open to any college student interested or gifted in sewing. This club gives opportunity for the exchange and execution of original ideas.

CLASS PROPHECY

Sing a song of Seniors
Of Class of '35.
Listen to their progress
As onward these girls strive.

See now our Margie Fernald
(She who did preside)
Still charming, sweet; she's now become
The President's fair bride.

Tune in your radio to-night
That you may surely hear
Florence Jackson's lovely voice
Which charms the public's ear.

Then also on your radio
A pianistic treat
As Mary Monahan plays soft
Beethoven's Second Suite.

Miriam Sullivan is heard
Upon the concert stage
With dulcet tones of violin
The wonder of the age!

Triumphant Mimi Pomerantz
Now leads the League of Nations
Carefully promotes World Peace
And summons delegations.

Close by her, aiding every move,
Bee Katcher speaks and votes
And with Miss Pomerantz
World Fellowship promotes.

Kay Kelliher and Anna Doyle
That Mathematical pair
Are income tax experts
Who rout financial care.

The psychologist, Florence Fortin,
At Columbia College shines
Where she created a sensation
By training porcupines.

When in New York you venture
Be fashion-wise and stop
To buy yourself an outfit
At the Alice Nadle Shoppe.

The first of flying school teachers
Was Mary Smith become,
And high above you in the skies
Her aeroplane does hum.

In Ecuador, Catherine Corcoran
Has started a FIVE-and-TEN
(When she's amassed a million
She'll be back home again.)

Did you enjoy Beatrice Lillie?
Or laugh at Fannie Brice?
Genie Henderson's comedy
Has put their fame on ice!

Ruth Reavey, now an actress,
Interprets Shakespeare's best
(Until you've seen her Portia,
You really should not rest!)

Marguerite Lenhart models
For smart Harper's Bazaar
Her svelte figure brings despair
To many a movie star.

If you have an invitation
To attend a Masquerade,
The designs of Albina Shinofsky
Will make you well arrayed.

The 'angel' of the sore-distressed,
Who brings them healing balm,
Is gentle Eileen Larkin
Efficient, pleasant, calm.

As you pick up the evening paper
To current events peruse
Remember Evelyn Jegelwicz
Who edits all the news.

Mary Brown has come to town
To lecture on the air,
All mothers should be listening in,
To hear "Why Children Stare."

Gingling Brothers' brightest star,
(Gert Flannery by name),
As barker on the midway,
Her voice has brought her fame.

A four-star picture has come out,
And gained the Academy prize.
The "Orphan Twins"—Oliver and Barberis,
Will bring tears to your eyes.

Micky Mouse is quite put out,
And so is his creator,
Since the Dot Richard brain-child debut–
Scaley the Alligator.

The grandest opening of the year,
With gowns new and chic,
At Maria Clancerelli's shop
You should take a peek.

Florence Scag is in the swim
On our Olympic team.
Florence swims the Goldfish Bowl
And still remains serene.

While Pat stands by, until the end,
Her friend she can't forsake.
She holds the lifeline in her hand,
In case the tube should break.

If you should plan a wedding,
And don't know what to do,
With all her vast experience,
Miss Drummond can help you.

The deep, dark, throb of drums is still
As natives bow the head
Under Missioner Wallace's charmed spell,
And change their tunes to psalms instead.

Gert McKissick's done her bit,
She's risen to great fame.
She ties six bibs on every day
For shame, Dionne's. For shame.

Twinkling toes that tapped so sprightly
In old Westfield's halls,
La Rose is now the dancing star
Who answers curtain calls.

To Peg McCarthy, fearless driver,
We dedicate this verse.
Deafened by back-seat drivers,
She now chauffeurs a hearse!

Washington has perpetual motion
From the tongue of Speaker Devine
Whose hypnotic hyperbole harasses
The Senators supine.

Hear, at the Metropolitan,
Ginger Walker's voice—
Then thank the correspondence course
That made it sound so choice.

Large headlines in the daily news
We scan with eager zest—
Emilia B. has donned short skirts
To ballet in Bucharest.

It's safe to visit Europe
By way of A. Demyttenaere,
Her traveling bureau guards you
From foreign wile and snare.

In New York's art museum we find
I. Turner's famed collection
Of priceless musical instruments—
A saw caused its suggestion.

Almeda Kellogg now controls
Production of unusual sweaters,
She guides the styles in knitted goods
All made as soft as feathers.

Not even Gertrude Stein's remarks
Could cause much greater fussing
Than Grace Egan's famous lecture on
"Making Something Out of Nothing."

As clever cartoonist, Carol Graves
Her inspiration dates
To former Teachers College Days
And profiles of her mates.

College students guess no more
Concerning foreign relations,
For K. Sanders daily prints
Brief views of world-wide situations.

In naturalistic sciences
L. St. Clair has made her mark;
Dissecting ten-foot cobras
To her is just a lark.

As chain store queen Miss Matzke
Scarce finds time to think,
From town to town she dashes
Making competition shrink.

As companion Ann Johnson finds
Her sympathetic gentleness
Essential to the nervous needs
Of a million-dollar heiress.

Rural library circulation
To heights indeed has risen,
As United States statistics prove
Under Aldrich supervision.

F. Del Dotto's foundling home
Is full of pleasant cheer;
She welcomes homeless little tikes
From parts both far and near.

All America does rejoice
In Faith Page's realization
Of quelling communistic riots
Thus aiding civilization.

Sung the song of Seniors—
Told the fate of each—
May the gods watch o'er them.
May success they reach!
